+Glory to the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, both now and ever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

All holy Trinity, have mercy on us. Lord, forgive our sins. Master, pardon our transgressions. Holy One, visit and heal our infirmities for your name's sake.

+Glory to the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, both now and ever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

Lord, have mercy. Lord, have mercy. Lord, have mercy.

O Lord Jesus Christ, Son of God, for the sake of the prayers of your most pure Mother, of Saint (N., the name of your patron saint), of Saint (N., the name of the saint whose memory is commemorated on this day), and of all your Saints, have mercy upon us and save us, for you are a merciful God and love all mankind. Amen.

roused to action, be found ready, and enter into the joy and the divine bride-chamber of his glory, where the voice of those that feast is never silent, and the delight of those that behold the inexpressible beauty of your countenance passes all telling; for you are the true Light that enlightens and sanctifies every manner of thing, and of you does every creature sing. Amen.

O holy Angel, that keeps guard over my despondent soul and passionate life, leave me not, a sinner, nor depart from me to my undoing; grant not a place to the crafty enemy to overcome me by the force of this mortal body; strengthen my weak and feeble hand and set me on the path of salvation. Yes, holy angel of God, guardian and protector of my hopeless body and soul, forgive me everything wherein I have offended you every day of my life, and what I have done amiss this past night; protect me during the present day and preserve me from every attempt of the enemy. May I not anger God by any sin. Pray for me to the Lord our God that he may establish me in his fear and prove me a servant worthy of his kindness.

It is truly right to call you blessed, O Theotokos, ever-blessed and most pure and the mother of our God. More honorable than the Cherubim, and beyond compare more glorious than the Seraphim, who without corruption gave birth to God the Word; you, O Theotokos, do we laud and magnify.

we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.

For yours is the kingdom and the power and the glory, of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, both now and ever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

Arising from sleep we fall down before you, O Blessed God, and sing to you, O Mighty One, the angelic hymn: holy, holy, holy are you O God. Through the intercessions of the Theotokos, have mercy on us.

+Glory to the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit.

You O Lord have aroused me from my bed and from sleep; enlighten my understanding and my heart, and open my lips that I may sing of you, O Holy Trinity: holy, holy, holy are you O God. Through the intercessions of the Theotokos, have mercy on us.

Both now and ever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

Suddenly shall come the judge, and the deeds of every man be revealed; but with fear we cry to you in the morning: holy, holy, holy are you O God. Through the intercessions of the Theotokos, have mercy on us.

Lord, have mercy (12).

Arising from sleep I thank you, O Holy Trinity, that for the sake of your great kindness and long-suffering you have not had indignation against me, for I am slothful and sinful, neither have you destroyed me in my transgressions: but you have shown your customary love towards man and have raised me up as I lay in heedlessness, that I might sing my morning hymn and glorify your sovereignty. Enlighten my understanding, open my ears to receive your words and teach me your commandments. Help me to do your will, to sing to you, to confess you from my heart, and to extol your all-holy name, of Father, Son and Holy Spirit, both now and ever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

O come, let us worship God, our King.

O come, let us worship Christ, our King and our God.

O come, let us worship Christ himself, our King and our God.

+Glory to the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, both now and ever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

We bless you, O God, most high and Lord of mercy. You are always doing great and inscrutable things with us, glorious and wonderful and without number. You grant us sleep for rest from our infirmities, and repose from the burdens of our much toiling flesh. We thank you, for you have not destroyed us in our sins, but have continued to love us; and though we were sunk in despair, you have raised us up to glorify your power. Therefore, we implore your incomparable goodness. Enlighten the eyes of our understanding and raise up our minds from the heavy sleep of indolence. Open our mouths and fill it with your praise, that we may be able without distraction to sing and confess that you are God, glorified in all and by all, the eternal Father, with your only begotten Son and your all holy, good, and life-giving Spirit, now and forever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

O Lord Almighty, God of angelic hosts and of all flesh, that dwells in the highest and cares for the humble, that searches the reins and the heart and clearly discerns the hidden things of men; Light from eternity and ever-existent, with whom is no variableness neither shadow of turning: O King Immortal, receive our prayers which we, trusting in the multitude of your mercies, offer to you at this present time from our soiled lips; forgive us our transgressions, which we have committed knowingly or unknowingly, in thought or word or deed, and cleanse us from all stain of body and soul. Grant us to pass through all the night of this present life with vigilant heart and sober thought, in expectancy of the coming of the bright and manifest day of your only-begotten Son, our Lord God and Savior, Jesus Christ, in which shall come with glory the judgment of all men, when to each shall be given the reward of his works; may we not fall away into sloth but take courage and, being
